AMERICAN CAVALRY GRENADIERS NOW IN ACTION

REAR GUARD OF BOCHES FORCED TO GIVE WAY

Crown Prince's Army Retires On Practically the Whole Battle Front

GERMAN RESISTANCE BEING STRENGTHENED

Americans, By Quick Flanking Movement, Captured Machine Gun Nests

BY FRED S. FERGUSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, July 24 (8:50 a. m.)—Despite orders to hold to the death, the crown prince's rear guard is being forced to give way before the allied attack along practically the whole battle front.

Prisoners declare the units of the rear guard were ordered to remain at their posts and hold off the Americans to the last. Before the violence of the American assault they are being wiped out or taken prisoners.

The advance is proceeding cautiously at all points, however, owing to the great mass of German reinforcements and their increasing resistance. On many sectors, the battle occasionally loses all resemblance to a rear-guard action and appears as though the Germans intended to make a permanent stand. New German reserve divisions are being constantly identified.

The bitterest fighting is proceeding north of Jaulgonne, where the Americans are enlarging their bridgehead.

Americans are pressing northward along the main road from Chateau Thierry to Fere-en-Tardenois, in the region of Epieds (four miles northeast of Chateau Thierry) harrying the enemy retirement toward Fere-en-Tardenois, one of their principal communication centers. In this region, our forces captured Mariefarm, an important strategic point.

Coming through a certain woods, an American unit found the boches had established machine guns every ten yards. They were seemingly impregnable. The Americans massed as though for a frontal attack. While the Germans' attention was centered on these forces, other Americans made a wide, encircling movement and suddenly charged the enemy from both flanks. They were taken completely by surprise and surrendered to escape slaughter.

Everywhere are the most impressive and unusual scenes. French and American soldiers are fishing in the Marne at points where the Germans so recently crossed the river. American troops, wagons and guns continue to pour across to the north bank.

Shells Harvest Potato Crop

In covering activities, American contingents are passing through Torchy, Boureches, Chateau-Thierry, Vaux and other historic points, which a week ago were held by the boches. The results of heavy artillery fire are seen everywhere—dead boches, dead horses, smashed wagons, wrecked houses and trees snapped off like matches. Beyond Chateau-Thierry I saw a potato patch with most of the crop blown out of the ground by shells. In the midst of the patch was a shallow German dugout, covered by the footboard and headboard of a wooden bed taken from a nearby house. The boche occupants had left blankets, coats and other equipment in their flight.

The villages north of the Marne are badly wrecked and display shell freaks that remind one of the queer pranks played by our American tornadoes. One shell, hitting the side of a house, tore off the wall that served as the back of a cupboard. The dishes stood revealed on the shelves, untouched.

Along the road near the river, which was held by the enemy, a few days back, I saw prisoners at work filling in shell holes and smoothing the way for American wagons and guns.

The Americans are in the highest spirits, despite the fact they are literally snatching their food and rest on the run.

Two doughboys, bringing in two boches, forced the latter to carry a captured machine gun. When they decid-

HUN PLANS GO WRONG

PRISONERS BELIEVE KAISER MAY START ANOTHER OFFENSIVE

Program of German Effort This Summer All Gunned Up By Disastrous Failure of Recent Effort; Further Slaughter May Be Tried to Bolster Up Confidence of People at Home; Captive Huns Amazed at Rapidity of Franco-American Advance; Our Heavy Guns Were Destructive

BY FRANK J. TAYLOR

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, July 24 (8:45 a. m.)—The German drive southward between Soissons and Main de Massiges was one of three pushes they contemplated this summer—two toward Paris and one toward the channel ports, according to information obtained from prisoners. The recent effort, which resulted so disastrously and gummed up the whole program, was aimed toward Chalons and Epernay. The French and Americans have captured German officers who were prematurely appointed mayors of French cities to be occupied, including the two named.

Captured boches also declare that a large number of divisions were massed in Flanders for a drive against the British while they were concentrating 35 divisions (420,000 men) for the Champagne operation. The Flanders drive was to follow the crown prince's push as soon as the latter had attained a certain degree of success.

Many prisoners captured near Soissons have been identified as recently removed from Flanders, indicating the failure of the Champagne drive disrupted the contemplated Flanders campaign.

German officers say the third drive—toward Paris—was to be undertaken late this summer, or early in the autumn, in the event that the one just stopped did not carry clear through to the coveted territory.

Prisoners are doubtful as to whether these other two drives will be carried out as planned, since a great number of extra divisions were used on this front last week and many of them were so badly shattered they will not be fit for use as storm troops inside of four months.

The majority of intelligent German prisoners believe the kaiser will start another offensive this summer—on even a larger scale—to regain the confidence of the German people, which is admitted to be at low ebb. Many prisoners frankly say they do not know and do not care about Germany's future activities, declaring they are sick of the war.

During the enemy retirement, German officers say the allied artillery fire compelled them to fall back so fast they were unable to maintain an effective counter-barrage. While the allies were bombing boche positions preparatory to some of the local attacks, the German outposts were forced to take cover and many were captured before they could come out of the hiding places. In some regions the fighting was carried on almost entirely by artillery and machine guns, the Germans being so far ahead of the Americans that rifles and grenades could not be used effectively.

Allied aviators and German prisoners testify to the destruction wrought by our heavy guns on railways, roads and important junctions, which were necessary to the enemy's retirement. The German plan of retreat left the machine gun squads to fight rear-guard actions at many points. On several occasions when these guns and their crews were captured the boche gunners did not know that their comrades had already fallen back.

WHITE STAR SHIP TORPEDOED AND SUNK ON WAY TO AMERICA

13,100-Ton Liner "Justicia" U-boat Victim; Sunken Schooner's Crew Safe

LONDON, July 24.—Three torpedoes struck the Justicia before she went down, it was learned today. The big steamer fought eight German submarines from Friday afternoon until she sank Saturday morning.

The subs attacked Friday afternoon, firing seven torpedoes, two of them striking the ship. The vessel, however, kept on its course. The attack was resumed Saturday morning when three more torpedoes were fired, one striking and sinking her.

The Justicia is the largest ship which has fallen victim to the German submarine warfare. She was larger than the Lusitania.

LONDON, July 24.—Four hundred survivors of the torpedoed liner Justicia have been landed at an Irish port, it is announced. Survivors report that only one of ten torpedoes fired at the boat was effective and that it struck the engine room, wrecking the ship.

BERLIN, July 24.—The British steamer Justicia has been torpedoed and sunk, the admiralty announced. Submarine commanders state the boat was equipped with large steel anti-torpedo nets "rendering her destruction difficult."

The Justicia was sunk off the North Irish coast. Eleven of her crew were killed, but no passengers were lost.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The White Star Line received word here today that the 13,100-ton liner Justicia has been torpedoed and sunk while on its way to the United States.

The Justicia was the newest of the crack White Star Line ships. She was completed only a year ago and had been in service as a freight ship. She also had done transport duty for the United States and Canada. She made her first trip to this country loaded with invalid Canadian soldiers who were sent to New York and taken overland to Canada when the port of Halifax was closed by the explosion there.

The Justicia was equipped with triple screws and was registered at Liverpool.

Germans Now Send Reinforcements to the Southward

BY FRANK J. TAYLOR

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, July 24.—(8:30 a. m.)—The German movement within the salient north of Chateau Thierry which had been northward since the enemy retirement began, today was reported to be southward.

It is believed these are fresh replacements of troops and that the Germans are preparing to make a stiff stand in certain locations.

Violent Artillery Fire Marne to Aisne, Marne to Rheims

PARIS, July 24.—(12:35 p. m.)—Artillery fighting is proceeding violently between the Aisne and the Marne and between the Marne and Rheims, the French war office reported today. German counter-attacks west of Rheims were repulsed.

"Between the Marne and the Aisne and in Courton and Roi woods, both artilleries were greatly active," the communique said.

"West of Rheims, the Germans counter-attacked at 9 p. m. In the Vigny region, the French broke the enemy assaults and maintained their positions."

Crown Prince Changes Plan For a "Strategic" Retreat

BY WEBB MILLER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, July 24.—(12:05 p. m.)—The German crown prince has suddenly changed his plans for a strategic retreat in the Soissons-Rheims salient and has determined to fight it out there.

This decision, indicated by stiffening enemy resistance and increasing reinforcements, was borne out by German prisoners today, who declared the withdrawal order had been countermanded. They could offer no explanation, but military experts believe German politicians, fearing the internal effects of a huge retirement, forced the change in plans.

The crown prince continues to order new divisions into the pocket, drawing these reinforcements from as far north as the main British front.

German losses in this region are now estimated at from 125,000 to 150,000 men, including 25,000 prisoners.

U.S. TROOPS TAKE TOWN IN STREET FIGHTING

Village of Epieds Captured This Afternoon For the Third Time

ALLIED SUCCESS WOULD IMPERIL 400,000 HUNS

Germans Violently Bombard Ally Positions on Twelve-Mile Front

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, July 24.—American cavalry is in action for the first time in this war. Mounted men are scouting north of Chateau Thierry, harassing the enemy. They have introduced a new means of warfare, acting as mounted grenadiers. Several enemy detachments have been broken up by grenades hurled by the horsemen. The Germans are violently bombarding allied positions on the 12-mile front from Vigny to the Marne. A number of new German divisions have been identified in that region.

American troops, advancing north of Chateau Thierry this afternoon, captured the village of Epieds, for the third time, after violent fighting in the streets. The village is completely in ruins. In the Chatelet wood the Americans encountered stiff resistance from many German machine guns, but took the wood in a bayonet charge.

PARIS, July 24.—The Germans appear determined to avoid a prolonged retreat, and are reported to be preparing for a desperate stand along the present battle front.

Further allied successes under these conditions, will thus imperil more than 400,000 Germans. French and American troops overcoming bitter resistance, are progressing northeast of Chateau Thierry and south of the Ourcq.

DAY'S FIGHTING WAS FAVORABLE TO ARMS OF ALLIES

Advancing Yankees Stopped Temporarily, But Enemy Compelled to Retreat

BY LOWELL MELLETT (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, July 23.—(Night).—Another day of hard fighting has gone well with the Allies. Although at one point they threw back the advancing Americans temporarily, the Germans were compelled to give ground in many places, the most important of which were the regions of Soissons and Rheims—the two points where they are making their most frantic resistance.

Near Soissons, the enemy felt the pinch of the Franco-American shears. Near Rheims, the Franco-British shears jabbed its point in a little farther, adding to the dangers of the German army in the pocket below.

The Germans' slight success resulted from a heavy counter attack, which ousted the Americans from Epiais. But the Americans later regained the town and advanced a bit farther.

The object of the Germans in throwing in strong forces here is not certain, but it is believed to be necessary to protect the slow progress of withdrawal of supplies and troops from the pocket.

Incidentally today's reports showed that all munition depot fires are not the result of their destruction by the Germans but Allied aviators and long-range artillery have been particularly successful in hitting these dumps.

The French today attacked the Ourcq, crossing the Parce-Tigny road, toward Villermontaire (south of Soissons).

North of the Marne, the Americans advanced to the Barbillion wood line, passing the region of La Censeaudeux.

Between Mont St. Pierre and Chartres, the bridgehead was enlarged and several farms taken, despite stubborn enemy defense.

Possibly the day's most important success was the Franco-British advance in the Ardre valley, southwest of Rheims, where they took Virgny, a part of Ardre wood, all of the Rheims wood, and passed St. Euphrase.

I watched the progress of the battle from the heights of Montagne De Rheims this afternoon. In the beech and oak covered hills, directly below to the west, heavy forces of British troops were engaged. From the forests arose the crackle of machine gun fire, while the heavier note of artillery sounded more remote.

Both artilleries at the time were engaged solely in bombarding the rear areas, as the fighting was mostly hand-to-hand and the canopy of trees prevented accurate observation from the battery positions. The guns were afraid of hitting their own infantry.

German prisoners admitted their surprise at finding themselves opposed by British soldiers. Many of the German officers declared they did not know the Allied counter-offensive had begun on the other side of the salient.

The experience of the British in this battle illustrates the versatility of General Foch's strategy. They were moved from their previous positions, some distance away, expecting to go to the defense of the Marne line. Suddenly they were diverted to their present positions, arriving on the night of the 19th. They were ordered to attack the next morning, at the same time relieving the Italians, who had been holding the Germans successfully, but who needed rest.

The German 15th division already had lost heavily at the hands of the Italians. The British attack completed the work, almost annihilating it. Only about 500 men were left. Other divisions badly mauled were the 86th, 103rd and 22nd.

On the road to Eprenay, lorries and ambulances of all the Allies passed each other in continuous lines. One ambulance was driven by a young woman in dust-covered khaki. Italian soldiers resting by the roadside waved to her and she smiled brightly. Later I learned she is Miss Italia Garibaldi, attached to the remarkable Italian Alpine hospital. It is operated for all nationalities, including the Americans.

LABOR CONFERENCE HELD IN ENGLAND

LONDON, July 24.—In an effort to reach an amicable agreement with munition workers who are threatening to strike, conferences will be held tomorrow between representatives of the Government and the unions, which have named advisory committees. If these efforts fail, it was declared today, there will be more than 100,000 striking before the end of this week, with a possibility that this number will reach 200,000 next week.

Already 12,000 have left their work at Coventry and 3000 at Leicester. Today 60,000 men and 5000 women are scheduled to walk out at Birmingham. At Lincoln, thousands were scheduled to strike. Manchester workmen are expected to go out tomorrow. There has been no action yet at Glasgow.

Morning newspapers are urging workmen against haste, pointing out the danger of such a step. The Allies, they declare, will suffer greatly if the strike is permitted to be called.

out a large toll of casualties and is contenting himself with consolidating his gains elsewhere under the stiffening enemy resistance.

At the same time, the Allied generalissimo is keeping the Germans guessing and interfering with their withdrawal of reinforcements from other parts of the line by splendidly timed operations. The attack north of Montdidier yesterday while relatively void of geographical importance was a great tactical success. In addition to capturing three villages and 1500 prisoners, he showed the German high command the danger of weakening their lines to aid the crown prince in the Champagne.

The most notable advance in the main battle front recently is that reported on the west side of the salient. Unofficial dispatches report the Allies occupying the railway from Troesnes to Fere-en-Tardenois at a point within five miles of the latter city, southeast of Oulchy-le-Chateau.

This operation and the pounding of the British in the Ardre valley, on the opposite side of the salient, has resulted in an appreciable narrowing of the pocket.

FOCH WARILY SLOWS THE ALLY OFFENSIVE

BY J. W. T. MASON (United Press War Expert)

NEW YORK, July 24.—General Foch is still conducting his attacks along the Aisne-Marne salient warily, giving von Hindenburg no chance to catch the Franco-American troops in a position where they might be trapped by a sudden and reckless expenditure of German man power. The present engagement cannot be judged as if it were a major offensive. It is, therefore, perfectly in accord with every technical consideration for General Foch to conserve his own armies in face of the continual arrival of fresh German reserves south of the Aisne. The interruption of von Hindenburg's supply system is exerting inexorable pressure upon the Germans. This work, however, is slow. The same result could be accomplished more rapidly by uninterrupted French and American attacks. These assaults, however, would certainly cause very heavy Allied casualties, which is contrary to General Foch's present principles.

Von Hindenburg's strategic plans for further offensives have been completely demoralized by the French and Americans during the last six days. This is a sufficient result for the immediate future. It is certain that von Hindenburg cannot remain on his present line for an indefinite period. He must move still farther north toward the Aisne. If he does not do so his lines of communication will grow increasingly precarious and the danger of disaster will continue.

There is cause for satisfaction among the Allies that General Foch has again demonstrated his absolute self-mastery by slowing the American and French assaults at this time. General Foch is by temperament and training an offensive fighter. Defensive warfare is abhorrent to him. A leader with this characteristic, but with less far-seeing wisdom than General Foch might have been influenced by the early success of the Marne fighting to become deeply involved. General Foch knows how to wait. That is the best assurance of the final success of the Allied cause.

Just when the plan will be tried out, or at what streets cars will stop, is not known; however, the announcement states that the plan will not be in operation east of Figueroa street.

men was taken into Boston. Captain Robert Wharton and eighteen of the crew have arrived at the naval coast patrol headquarters at this port.

PORTLAND, Me., July 24.—Three dories containing nine members of the crew of the fishing schooner Robert and Richard, sunk by a German submarine about 60 miles southeast of Cape Porpoise Monday, were still missing early today, according to naval authorities.

Eleven of the schooner's crew arrived here on a coal steamer last night.

The Robert and Richard was sunk by a bomb placed on her by the crew of the submarine after a shell had halted the little vessel.

An officer of the submarine took an American flag from Captain Wharton of the schooner and as he did so declared he had another in his "summer home in Maine."

When last seen the U-boat, which was said to be about 250 feet long, was travelling southward, on the surface.

BREAKS LEG, SAVES BABY

LONG BEACH, July 24.—Benjamin Moord of 238 Cedar avenue was in a hurry to catch a Los Angeles-bound electric car, so he boarded a crowded jitney bus and sat on a door. In his arms he held a baby. As the automobile neared the corner of Anaheim street and American avenue, where Moord wanted to alight, the door of the jitney bus opened accidentally and Moord fell backward to the pavement. His left leg was broken and he was taken to the Seaside hospital. As he started to fall, he tossed the baby into the laps of other passengers. The infant was unhurt.

STOP THE USE OF GERMAN TONGUE IN LUTHERAN SCHOOL

Action Taken By St. John's Congregation After Petitions Are Received

St. John's parochial school at Orange, which has heretofore given an hour's religious instruction each day in the German language and 45 minutes' study of German grammar, writing and reading, will discontinue use of the German language in the school for the period of the war, according to a decision of the congregation of the church, as just announced by N. F. Jensen, the pastor. The action was taken, said Rev. Jensen, in order to satisfy those who had signed the petitions and to create a feeling of harmony and unity in the community, and not because the petitioners had proven the justness of their request.

Rev. Jensen, in announcing the decision of St. John's congregation, issued an explanatory statement, which, in part, is as follows:

A few weeks ago a petition, signed by a number of citizens of Orange, was presented to the undersigned with the request that action be taken on the same as soon as the congregation found it expedient. The petition calls upon the members of St. John's congregation to "discontinue after the close of the present school year the teaching of anything at any time, to any one, in the German language" in St. John's parochial school. "And if said school shall be continued as a parochial school that all courses offered and studied therein, as well as all instruction given, be in the English language."

"This request is made on the grounds that we are at war with Germany, and that the elimination of the use of the German language in the parochial school will enable the petitioners to better co-operate with the members of St. John's congregation in the winning of the war, the building of American institutions, and the rearing of American citizens."

Before I take up the matter referred to in the aforementioned petition I wish to correct some wrong ideas circulating among the people of our community regarding the use of the German language in St. John's parochial school. Many refer to our school as the "German school," thereby creating the impression among uninformed people that the medium of instruction is the German language. Nothing could be more misleading. Beginning at 8:45 a. m. we give our pupils one hour of religious instruction in the German language. This is followed by a forty-five minute period devoted to the study of German reading, grammar and writing—a study to which Orange Union high school has heretofore devoted one hour a day. During the remaining school hours the English language is used in all branches taught in our school. The limited use of the German language in our school does not hinder them in keeping pace with other pupils attending the public schools of our community.

The one hour of religious instruction is given to our pupils because it has always been held by the Lutheran church that it is the duty of the church to give its children a thorough Christian education. The reason we give our religious instruction in German is to enable our children to worship on Sunday in company with their parents. Most of our members understand the German sermon language better than the English, and as long as this is the case we must give our children a limited use and knowledge of the same language or suffer serious drawbacks in our church work. We are not opposed to nor do we discourage the use of the English language in church work. St. John's congregation introduced English Sunday evening services more than three years ago. We have our English Bible class and are doing all we can to take care of those among us who are losing their knowledge of German and show a better understanding of the English.

I have dwelt upon this point so as to give outsiders, not connected with our church and school, a better understanding of our work. The very fact that our children are reared and nurtured in our Lutheran church schools makes them staunch Americans—an ideal sought by the petitioners.

It is, therefore, not surprising to see the stand taken by many of the leading men of our nation against the step taken by many communities to abolish the study of the German language from the schools of our country. Mr. P. P. Claxton, U. S. commissioner of education, says: "I cannot agree with those who would eliminate the study of the German language from the high schools and colleges of the United States at this time. . . . The fact that we are at war with Germany should not, I believe, affect in any way our policies in regard to the teaching of the German language in our schools. . . . For practical, industrial and commercial purposes we shall need a knowledge of the German language more than we have needed it in the past."

When the question of eliminating the study of the German language in the schools of Washington, D. C., was discussed before the senate, Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, in a speech before the senate, said: "We can be carried too far by our prejudice and by our desire to punish some body and something. . . . The German language has been introduced in all parts of the world, and is being taught in all the schools and universities on the face of the earth. I fail to understand what benefits are to be derived through the suppression of the German language."

And what is the stand taken by our government in this great question? We find that the study of German is encouraged and fostered in our army camps. Soldiers having a knowledge of German are in great demand for special war work. The government is printing numberless war pamphlets in the German language. The German press is not being molested by congress. On May 6th, Champ Clark, speaker of the house of representatives, said that the publishers and readers of the American papers printed in the German language need have no fear of congress ever passing a law to suppress these papers, providing they observe the existing laws.

The Canadian government has taken no such steps as taken by the signers of the petition addressed to St. John's congregation.

In the petition addressed to the petitioners give us credit for "representing the best German thought in this community," which I interpret to mean that the members of St. John's congregation represent the best of the so-called German-American citizens, or American citizens of German birth or extraction, as I am pleased to call them. The petition further states "that not only they, but the school itself, are in absolute harmony with the policy of our government in the defensive warfare against the Central Empires." If that be true, and the representation of the case gives us only our just dues, we fail to see why we can do any more for our country in this hour of need, nor can we see any justice in the demand. The rather request, made upon us. The members of St. John's congregation have proven their loyalty in many ways. To accuse us of disloyalty would be contradicting the credits given us in your petition. But in spite of the fact that you have not proven the justness of your request, in our nation advise against the step demanded of us in your petition, in spite of the fact that the elimination of the use of the German language from our school and our course of religious instruction in said school a great hardship will be forced upon us, and sacrifices will have to be made, such as are not demanded of any other class of loyal American citizens who are giving their sons, their goods and their best efforts for the winning of the war in which we are engaged, we yield to your wishes for the time being, and will discontinue the use of the German language in our school work during the time of the war.

Hoping that this supreme sacrifice we are bringing may satisfy the petitioners and create a feeling of unity and harmony in our community, I close with a statement made by President Wilson to men of German birth at a Liberty Loan meeting held in Hudson county, N. J.:

"You may be sure that I sympathize with you and shall co-operate every effort to see to it that the loyal residents of the United States of German birth and descent are given genuine proof of the sincerity of our institutions. It distresses me beyond measure that suspicion should be attached to those who do not deserve it, and that acts of injustice should be based upon suspicion."

HOPE OF ALLIES HIGH AS FIFTH YEAR OF WAR IS DAWNING

Although Suffering Many Disappointments, British Are Not Downhearted

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1918, by the United Press)
WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, July 1.—On this front here big things loom up out of the year which began the middle of last summer and ended the middle of this: Haig's offensive in Flanders and at Cambrai.

The decision to brigade Americans with the British. The German offensive. Each will have a large place in the history of this war.

Although at that time there was no such thing as a generalissimo on the Western front, there was something approaching unity of command, and it had been agreed between British and French that certain general policies should be followed in the allied offensive of 1917. Without going into detail, the tactics of the Franco-British commanders were almost precisely those of Hindenburg and Ludendorff this year. That is, an offensive was to be turned loose in a particular place, and if this came to a standstill another offensive should be got under way as quickly as possible somewhere else.

Arras Fight Starts
So, on April 9, 1917, the battle of Arras began. A few days later the French attacked between Soissons and Rheims. The storming of Messines ridge came next and after this the push in Flanders and the drive against Cambrai.

The Flanders offensive was aimed against the high ground east and northeast of Ypres, against Passchendaele, Roulers and the U-boat bases on the Belgian coast. Had these been taken Germany's position in Belgium would have been precarious and her whole northern flank menaced.

But Haig played in usual British luck. The weather was abominable. Flanders became a quagmire. There were days when some of the finest fighting men who ever pushed a bayonet failed to reach their objectives only because it was a physical impossibility to cross the bog.

Of course progress was hopelessly retarded, losses were heavy and the campaign season ended with the capture of Passchendaele. The Germans were not seriously incommoded. On the other hand, British troops, who had to fight rain and mud quite as much as the other enemy, were very tired.

Still, after a pause, the Cambrai surprise was sprung on the Germans. And this was a surprise, the Germans themselves notwithstanding. Personally, I believe the war might have been ended there and then had the Allies not been dog tired at the end of a long, hard campaign, instead of being at the start and fresh. For the tanks, hundreds of them, broke completely through before the panic-stricken enemy realized what was going on. In front of the British infantry lay Cambrai and the wide-open country. All that was needed was a strong fresh army to exploit the breach. The whole German front might have been rolled up.

But . . . and that's the whole story . . . the men were tired and their ranks thin and, not being strong enough to push on, had, ten days later, to withdraw out of a dangerous salient.

Rumors of Offensive
About this time rumors of a great German offensive against the west front began to take form. The Russian collapse had become practically complete and a front which had required 76 German divisions to hold down, disappeared. Even at the time of Cambrai German divisions were arriving from Russia and from that moment on the Kaiser's armies in the West grew bigger and bigger.

A little over a year ago there were but 128 German divisions on the western battlefield. By February of this year these had grown to 181. Only 55 divisions were left in Russia, two others being in the Balkans and three in Italy, a total of 241.

The German offensive which began March 21 was not a surprise in any way whatsoever. While in Switzerland during the latter part of January I learned that the offensive would commence shortly after March 1, (depending upon weather and other conditions for the exact date); that it would come in the country southward of Arras; that the Germans would depend largely upon gas; that this gas was not new as the Raw-head-and-bloody-bones scaremongers and German propagandists insisted, but had been used both at Cambrai and in Italy; that a very short artillery preparation would be made; something of the approximate number of troops available; that a big effort would be made first against the British, then against the French in a drive towards Paris, which city German military leaders insisted must be taken; and a lot of other information along with this, all of which and more, of course, the intelligence section of the British army had found out the same as I. This is not swank on my part. I simply state these facts to prove that Sir Douglas Haig knew when, where and how Hindenburg's offensive was coming.

British Extend Lines
Not very long before the offensive began an unfortunate thing occurred. The fortunes of war necessitated the taking over of more line by the British. Formerly the British line ended near St. Quentin. Now it was extended as far as La Fere, and before the troops got fairly into their new sector, Hindenburg's blow fell.

Against the long, thin British line, reaching from the River Scarpe to the Oise, at La Fere, was hurled the mightiest force ever seen in battle. Along this 50-mile front three army groups swept forward at dawn, under cover of the mist. These were the 7th army of Otto von Below, said to be the ablest army commander Hindenburg has; the 2d army of von Marwitz and the 18th army of von Hutier, together numbering more than 80 divisions, of which 41 divisions were used in the first day's attack. Opposing the enemy were the small 3d British army under Sir Julian Byng, of Cambrai fame, and the smaller 5th army, under Gen. Gough, worn down in the campaigns mentioned and very thinly spread out.

No soldiers on earth ever went through such an ordeal as did the British during the seven days following the start of that offensive. On March 23 the enemy crossed the Tortille and for a moment it seemed that they might succeed in separating the French and British armies, which joined up just south of this point, but the gaps were closed and the 5th army went on retreating, with the 3d army falling back in order to keep in touch. To the south the French Gen. Faye with superb skill, kept the gaps closed around Ham, Nesle, Chauny, Roye and Noyons.

On the Somme came another critical moment. Here again, had the Germans been so clever as they like to believe themselves, they might have broken through; but again the gap was closed. On the 25th the enemy took Mantinpuich and Courcellette, and Albert was entered on the following day, but by this time Gen. Foch had been made generalissimo in charge of all operations on the western front, the French had moved northwestward as far as Moreuil on the Ayrre permitting Haig to thicken his line, and the offensive was brought to a standstill. In all, 84 divisions had been used by the Germans, out of a total of some 200 divisions then identified in the West.

The drive in Flanders came a few days later, on April 9. It started in a small way, against the Portuguese just south of Armentieres, and two British divisions on their flanks. By their unexpectedly rapid advance in the center, crossing the River Lys at Bac-St. Maur and pushing on towards Bailleul a dangerous situation was created for the British, and the Germans knew it. So they quickly flung in more troops to enlarge the breach and, the following day, struck at Messines, north of Armentieres. This city was deluged with gas and "pinched out."

As on the Somme, the German under von Arnim and von Quast, by advancing against the British 1st Army (and the French, who had come up) towards Hazebrouck, which soon became their objective, forced a retirement of the army to the north, the 2d which had won Passchendaele. For the Ypres salient, now a dangerous pocket, the British fell back with practically no losses, to Ypres itself. This was heartbreaking for the men who had won this ground in 1917, but the war had now become a struggle not for towns and villages, but to outmaneuver and annihilate armies.

The Drive for Paris
On May 27 began the drive for Paris just as everybody who had eyes to see had expected, a continuation of Hindenburg's fundamental plan to crush the Allied armies and force a German peace on the world.

But the great decision to brigade Americans with the British and French already had become effective. We first knew of it in confidence, as far back as January. Now it was a reality. The result is, or ought to be, that the Allies may fall back here and cede ground there but slowly and surely Hindenburg's armies must dwindle while the Allied forces grow. Fighting men from the U. S. are pouring in. And despite the worst which yet may happen, to quote a square-jawed American I have just been talking to "nothing in God's world can save the Boches from a hiding that will last them the rest of time!"

The British have taken some hard knocks during the past year and have gone up against some bitter disappointments, but there is not one who does not get mad as a wet hen if anybody suggests that the Allies are losing the war. Just as during those terrible days of the retreat from Mons, if you start the cry: "Are we downhearted?" the British will shout back in deafening chorus: "N-O-O-O-O-O!"

CITY ENLISTS IN ANTI-USURY CAMPAIGN

Flying Squadron Comes to Town, Gets Signatures to Initiative Petitions

Santa Ana was enlisted in the anti-usury campaign yesterday afternoon when the flying squadron passed through, distributing a number of initiative petitions and securing a large number of signatures. The petitions are for the purpose of getting an anti-usury law on the ballot in the November election, limiting not only the legal rate of interest but limiting to 12 per cent all interest contracts. "Everyone who is not a loan shark should sign the petition," said a member of the flying squadron, who are donating their time in the campaign, which is an outgrowth of the Jennie Lloyd case, where a loan shark was compelled to refund excess payments collected from a mother of two soldiers in France.

A petition at the Wilson cigar stand at Fourth and Main was numerously signed, and several other petitions were left in town. Some were left at the Register office, where they may be signed, and volunteers may secure them for circulation in their neighborhoods.

The flying squadron worked down the coast yesterday to San Diego and will return the inland route, hoping to get 25,000 signatures to absolutely insure getting the measure on the November ballot. All petitions must be turned in by the circulators to the county clerk, preferably this week, for checking. No petitions will be accepted after July 31.

The party passing through town yesterday afternoon included J. P. Steele, managing director of the anti-usury league; William C. Keim, manager of a Los Angeles business block; Hale Brown, son of Senator Brown; David S. B. Stannard, and John F. Coppinger.

5 Good Years

We have just completed our 5th year of business in Santa Ana, this last year being our very best. We began here in 1913 in a little room on North Main, with only 1900 feet of floor space. Before a year we had out-grown that room and today we occupy the big room at the corner of Fourth and Bush with 8320 feet of floor space, over four times our first little store and our rooms are full from basement to balcony—Nothing but good goods at right prices, together with right treatment to the good people of Orange county can account for the big success of Taylor's Cash Store and we do from our hearts thank each one who has helped to make our store one of the most popular in Santa Ana. And now as we begin our 6th year we want to say to each and every person in Orange county—

"OUR STORE IS YOURS. We couldn't have succeeded without your help and now use us. We are here not only for our own good but yours." In completing our invoice we find many broken lines and reasonable goods that we have put on our tables at deep cut prices. "Come in and be shown." And here's hoping that our 6th year will be our banner one. Make it so. Come help us.

J. W. Taylor, Jr. will now devote all of his time to helping make Taylor's Cash Store the best place to trade in Orange County, and J. W. Taylor, Sr., will as he has for the last five years try his best to "make your dollar go further here than anywhere." "Come in and be shown."

FURTHER INSTRUCTION FOR DRAFT IS RECEIVED
Students in medicine, engineering, physics, chemistry and other technical subjects essential to the prosecution of the war are to be placed in Class 5, according to instructions received by the district exemption board.

The board received an order from Provost Marshal General Crowder in which this announcement was made: Students seeking bachelor or higher degrees in medicine, engineering, physics, chemistry and other technical subjects essential to the prosecution of the war and who are enrolled in a school approved by the War Department, can enlist in the enlisted reserve corps and upon such enlistment will be placed in Class 5.

This order also includes teachers in the courses already outlined. An important amendment to one of the "work or fight" rulings was contained in the announcement that clerks in manufacturing plants, power plants and gas and electric companies are exempt from the "work or fight" order.

Clerks employed in the sale of supplies at such plants or companies, however, are not exempt.

FULLERTON, July 24.—Fred W. Braddock failed to put in an appearance at 5:50 Monday afternoon for entrapment to Camp Lewis with the contingent sent out at that time.

Braddock went out at that time. W. D. Head Drilling Company of Brea when he registered with the local exemption board in June, 1917. When he filed his questionnaire last December, he gave his postoffice address as Taft, Cal. On March 7, last, when he was ordered to take a physical examination he went before a Fresno board. Later he sent in his address as Coalings, care of the Axtell Mercantile Company. Notices sent to that address, however, came back unclaimed.

Joseph Gothard of Blythe was entrained in place of Braddock.

On Work or Fight
The district board is meeting for its first real work on the "work or fight" order. The first seven cases to be dealt with are those of a private chauffeur, diamond broker, private detective, soda fountain clerk and three salesmen.

The local exemption board has a call to entrain on Monday, July 29, one topographer and one rigger for Camp Forrest Lytle, Ga. The men

The attraction at the Temple Theater, starting Sunday next, will be "Pershing's Crusaders," an eight-reel feature, presented by the Committee on Public Information, George Creel, chairman. It comprises the work of the U. S. Signal Corps and Navy Photographers and cameramen of the French General Staff. This is the first official picture which shows the Stars and Stripes at the front. It shows the activities of "our boys" on the firing line and also what is being done by the Sammys in all parts of France. There is also a section devoted to the stupendous work being done in training camps, shipyards and arsenals. In all of its phases the human note is predominant. In order that all may see what is being done by the United States in the struggle for freedom, popular war time prices will prevail. The picture will be shown locally at the Temple Theater four days, beginning Sunday.

News from the Courts

MEANDERING HORSE IS AGAIN AT HOME

After wanderings, a horse owned by George White has been recovered. Sunday night he wandered away from Newport Beach, hitched to a buggy. About midnight that night S. Tenick, a driver for the Crown Stage, saw the horse west of town. Tenick thought the driver was asleep in the buggy, and he yelled to him to wake up. The next day Tenick recognized the horse standing at some trees north of the Ford place on the Anaheim road. Later in the day he saw the horse in the same place, and he decided to investigate. He found the vehicle hooked into a tree so the horse could not get away. Tenick watered and fed the animal and did the same thing again yesterday. He then turned the matter over to Deputy Sheriff Cravath, who placed the horse in the stables at Fifth and Spurgeon, where he was told that the owner had a rig rented and was away looking for that very outfit. This morning the owner returned and found his horse at the stables.

Epps was in charge of an automobile full of shoulder hams which he was selling here as hams.

will be selected in a day or two.

On Thursday, August 1, the local exemption board will entrain two colored men for Camp Lewis, Washington. The men picked to go are William Kingston of Watts and John N. Tompkins of Fullerton.

Philip F. G. Budd of Fullerton, Edward W. Freeman of Anaheim, and George F. Hostick of Whittier, have been informed by the local exemption board that they are each disqualified for military service and placed in Class 5.

TAKES NEW LICENSE TO GET KOREAN AND MEX. INDIAN HERE MARRIED

A much perturbed Korean and mystified Mexican-Indian appeared at the courthouse yesterday, and before leaving were this time really married. Two years ago they appeared and got a marriage license. They thought that the license was all that was required, only that and nothing more. They knew nothing of the virile ceremony performed often by Justice Cox and nothing of the more elaborate ceremonies of local ministers. They left the courthouse with the license, and have lived happy ever since. A day or two ago the Korean, whose name is Young Woon Chun, got to talking with a friend who is wiser in the ways of America than is Chun, and Chun was startled when he was told that he was never married. He went to the courthouse and there made diligent inquiry. Miss Whitney looked over her records, and found that there was no record of the marriage. Chun was told he could even now use the license issued two years ago. His response was that the license had been lost. So another license was issued yesterday to Chun, aged 42, and Timotea Hernandez, 50, both of Santa Ana, and the couple were guided into the august presence of Justice Cox, who, within a hundred words, united the couple as man and wife.

CAR WHEEL CRUMPLED BY SHARP TWIST OF STEERING WHEEL

A peculiar accident happened to Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Graham and their friend, Mrs. Emma G. Relf of Long Beach today shortly before 1 o'clock while they were on their way to San Diego.

The party had passed through the city when Mr. Graham turned back to purchase some films. On the return when he reached the corner of First and Main streets, he narrowly missed a collision with Roy Vincent's car, which was traveling west on First street.

Mr. Graham made a sharp turn to avoid striking the other car and put his foot upon the throttle instead of the brake. In the sharp twist given the machine one of the right wheels crumpled up and the car slid to the curb. The fender was also badly bent. The car belongs to Mrs. Relf.

START NEW WATER WELLS

PORTERVILLE, July 24.—Work has been started on more than a dozen deep wells in the Success district, one of the few orange sections about here dependent on ditch irrigation. The water in the river is lower than has been known for forty years and in consequence the supply of ditch water is about equal to half the demand. It is believed the wells can be completed in time to insure the safety of the fall orange crop.

MET YESTERDAY AND MARRIED EARLY THIS MORNING

Recorder W. F. Heathman
Arose at 4 O'clock Today
To Tie Nuptial Knot

Colonel W. F. Heathman, city recorder, says that he wouldn't mind arising from his peaceful slumbers every morning of the year to perform a wedding ceremony at 4 a. m., if the high contracting parties would leave a ten spot in his hand in payment for his august services.

This morning at the above-named ungodly hour, a couple named Herbert Volk, who had motored out to sunny Southern California from Chicago, and Miss Mary Jeannette Haskell, who resides in Los Angeles, arrived at the city hall, seeking the place where they issue marriage licenses.

They were given a cordial reception by Joseph H. Ryan, the affable peace officer, and he called upon Joe M. Backs, deputy county clerk, the same who issued a license to another love-lorn couple early in the day and early in the week, and the desired document was soon forthcoming. The automobile then called for Colonel Heathman and the ceremony was ably performed at the city hall, the witnesses being the bride's uncle, M. C. Hamlin, and Police Officer J. H. Ryan.

The marriage was the result of a case of love at sight, the young couple meeting each other for the first time yesterday afternoon.

SCATTERING EFFORTS

That there has been some scattering of efforts toward helping win the war by bettering conditions for soldiers is well known. Here and there unauthorized collections have been urged, articles have been sold to raise money for some particular line of work declared by the canvassers to be essential, subscriptions have been taken for obscure purposes. Somebody gets a bright idea about providing some luxury for some group of soldiers, and before we know it some stranger is around selling us something to raise that particular fund.

Most of these schemes serve a good purpose, no doubt. Most of the money so raised finds its way into the channels for which it is intended. But how do we know?

There are a number of big things that are recognized by the government as essential war organizations. Their work is so important and so necessary and so big that all of us can expend all our effort and give all our spare cash to them, and we know that everything we have done has gone into the right channels. When we give to the Red Cross or to the Y. M. C. A. War Fund or to any of the other organizations that have standing and scope in the war work, we feel that we have contributed something to something that we know about.

Locally, not long ago a solicitor showed up here and collected $10 apiece from a number of Santa Anans upon a plea of getting out posters for the government. When a merchant told him he was going to ask the County Council of Defense concerning him, the solicitor disappeared.

We ought to demand that every person who goes about selling articles and soliciting funds for any purported fund show a permit either from the County Council of Defense or the Santa Ana War Council. If the scheme is of the kind that deserves support, such a permit ought to be easy to get. If it is doubtful in its benefits, business men and residents of the city ought not to be called upon to contribute, even in small amounts. None of us likes to turn down anything with a patriotic angle to it, but we ought not to be left to guess as to whether or not a stranger soliciting our contribution is genuine or bogus. Of course, when there is a benefit run by local people for the Red Cross or for some other patriotic organization our acquaintance with those concerned in the affair is sufficient guarantee of the sincerity of the effort. All others ought to be discouraged excepting when authorized by some of our central patriotic organizations.

LET US ADOPT THE CUSTOM

Santa Ana is among the places that have so far not adopted the custom of lifting the hat when the flag passes by in a procession. It is a matter of custom, not a matter of law or patriotism. A man who has not been in a city where the hat is lifted as the flag goes by may be intensely patriotic and fail to bare his head to the colors. However, it is a formal sign of respect, a reverence that we should not hesitate to display. The custom of saluting the flag in that way is one that we should adopt. It adds dignity to a procession. It gives expression to the sentiment that is in our hearts.

The Register has heard a number of remarks made by military men who say that everywhere the custom is being adopted. The soldiers are getting to the point where they expect this mark of respect. They are struck with the failure of the people in any city to respond to the passing of the flag.

We would rather be numbered among the cities where the custom prevails than among those where it has not yet been adopted.

Break Germany's Graven Images

From the Kansas City Star

Doctor Muehlton, the former Krupp director, reveals the fatal defect of the German character when he points out its surrender to the gospel of materialism as preached by its Prussian propagandists. "The Prussian system of government," he says, "has gradually transformed what was once the 'nation of poets and philosophers' into a race of the basest materialists the world has ever seen."

Doctor Muehlton accurately indicates the process. One class corrupts another, from the highest to the lowest until the whole nation is bound as by enchantment. "Take a man like Herr Ballin, the director of the Hamburg-American line. He was a good personal friend of mine. I have had many talks with him about the war and he always expressed perfectly sensible ideas. But I could never induce him to act up to them. His great fear was to lose the Kaiser's favor. An autographed letter from the Kaiser makes him fairly burst with pride, and he fears that if he should write or say anything at variance with the orthodox Prussian war doctrine the Kaiser would not write him any more letters to show to his friends. With the workman it is the same. A miserable medal or decoration for faithful services converts him in a trice from socialism to monarchism and the prospects of higher wages, better food and fewer taxes reconciles him with the idea of new frightful offensives, annexations and war indemnities."

The militarists have set up the god of success and called upon the nation to worship the graven image. For the privileged orders its likeness is the Kaiser. They prosper or must fail with him. Ribbons, crosses, offices in the state are in his gift and these they use to dazzle those beneath them as they were dazzled by them. They must become the images of success in the eyes of the lower who in turn are flung the cheaper rewards to capitalize as they can.

A nation thus corrupted by materialism and so blinded that it will even accept the shadow for the substance is likely to take its awakening rudely. It is not disciplined to take defeat, and Doctor Muehlton predicts that a reverse of fortune will quickly break the spirit of a people taught to inflict but not endure suffering. As they have worshipped force, by force alone can they be convinced of their mistake. To try otherwise to convert them is to exhibit what they take for weakness, with the result only of strengthening their belief in their chosen gods. Their images must be broken, and with weapons which the German people must be made to see are more terrible in democracy's hands than in their own.

Courtesy Has Value

From the Indianapolis News

The average person has no sympathy for a corporation simply because he has the feeling that the corporation has no sympathy for him. The word "corporation" carries a certain amount of dislike with it. Some people, generally speaking, have no natural feeling against a company, partnership or the like, but whenever they hear something said about a corporation they immediately take sides against such a body. They are fond of repeating the trite sentiment that a corporation has no soul. The view is largely due to the corporations and has been brought about through a lack of common courtesy. Courtesy begets courtesy, and friendship begets friendship. Whenever a corporation sets out to be cold to the public it wishes to serve, the public will return coldness in kind. And misfortune that comes to such a corporation brings no echo of sympathy from the people. They feel that such an organization had no soul, and consequently had no right to feelings either.

Some of the public service corporations have realized the prevailing view, and have taken great trouble to train their employees to understand the value of courtesy. The railroads have possibly taken the lead in this respect. Railroad men are generally courteous now, and do their best to make travel a pleasure. The ticket agent—with some notable exceptions—usually is glum, but he has great provocation, and even he is on the upgrade. Other corporations have impressed their working force—especially that portion of it dealing with the public—that the people must be courteously treated.

Mothers In War Time

From the Red Cross Magazine

A beautiful preface by Maurice Maeterlinck to a series of powerful French war pictures by S. Levy Durrmer, contains the following:

Their sons are taken from them at life's fairest moment, when their own lives are on the decline. And yet, our mothers do not weep as have the mothers of other wars. We know not what sustains them and gives them the strength to bear the remainder of their life. Some among them have other children, and we can understand how they lavish upon them the love and the future which death has cut short. Many have never lost, or else they try to recover their faith in the eternal promises. But so many others, whose dwelling is forever desolate, seem to entertain the same hope as those in whom hope has always been alive.

When World Will Rejoice

From the Sacramento Union

It is suggested that the allied nations, by common accord, set aside a certain day each year hereafter to be celebrated as "Liberty Day," for the commemoration of the struggles and sacrifices made in this present war for freedom. The suggestion is well taken but the time is premature. The anniversary of the day when Wilhelm and the German people are beaten to their knees and the present Germany passes from the scene forever, will be kept by us and posterity in all civilized lands as the greatest of international holidays, saving Christmas only. And it will be "some" day.

EGGS 75 CENTS DOZEN PREDICTED BY L. A. MAN

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Butter and eggs are going up higher this year than last.

This is the information given out yesterday by F. M. Hudson, secretary of the Los Angeles Produce Exchange. No less than 60,000 pounds of butter are daily consumed throughout this city, stated Mr. Hudson, while the egg consumption varies between one thousand to thirteen hundred cases a day.

"There is a shortage of produce at this time every year," declared Secretary Hudson, "but this year besides the shortage we find ourselves facing an increase of food consumption. Usually with the coming of summer the public has departed for the seashore and spent their money in other ways than on food. But not so this year."

"There is over 60,000 pounds of butter consumed daily in Los Angeles together with from one thousand to thirteen hundred cases of eggs."

"On the first of July our storage report showed that there were 16,008 cases of eggs under ice. On July 21, three weeks later, only 7,008 cases remained, exactly 9,000 cases being consumed. The only answer is that eggs and butter will go higher this year than ever before. I predict that in the first week of November the price of eggs will go to 75 cents a dozen to the consumer as compared to 65 cents as the highest last year."

"Butter will retail at 65 cents at the highest this year. Last year the consumer paid 60 cents a pound for it. There is an increase of food consumption and there seems to be no cure. Abstaining from meat and wheat has turned the public appetite toward butter and eggs, so it appears."

ORDINANCE NO. 158

An ordinance, amending ordinance No. 151, of the County of Orange, entitled "An ordinance granting to the Pacific Electric Railway Company, a corporation, a franchise granting the right to construct and for fifty (50) years to maintain an electric railroad along, over and across certain public roads and highways in the County of Orange," so as to extend the time within which the work thereunder shall be completed.

Whereas, by ordinance No. 151 of the County of Orange, passed and adopted by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Orange on September 5th, 1917, there was granted to Pacific Electric Railway Company, a corporation, a franchise and right to construct and for fifty (50) years to maintain an electric railroad in, over, along and across certain public roads and highways in the County of Orange, therein particularly described, and

Whereas, by Section 5 of said ordinance it was provided that the work of constructing said road should be completed within not more than three years from the granting of said franchise, and that if same should not be so completed said franchise should be forfeited, and

Whereas, thereafter, on to-wit: the 8th day of March, 1918, the Honorable Railroad Commission of the State of California, by order made and entered in a certain proceeding pending before it, denied to said Pacific Electric Railway Company permission to construct said railroad, until after the end of the war now being waged, and

Whereas, said Pacific Electric Railway Company is thereby for the duration of the war now pending, prevented from prosecuting said work and made unable to comply with said Section 6 of said ordinance, as to completion thereof, and is deprived of the benefit of the time by said ordinance granted for the completion of said work, therefore:

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Orange do ordain as follows:

Section 1. BEREAN SOCIAL

Miss Grace Rowley, Soon to Leave For China, Honored Guest

The Berean class of the First Presbyterian church held their mid-summer social Tuesday evening at Birch park.

There were about 100 who sat at well-laden tables, beautifully decorated with pink and white oleanders.

After the bountiful supper was enjoyed, the class teacher, Mr. A. M. McDermott, made some well-chosen remarks, and was followed by Miss Grace Rowley, who was the honored guest of the evening. Her comparisons of our picnics and those of China were interesting as well as amusing. Miss Rowley's furlough as a missionary in China is drawing to a close and she expects to leave again for the Orient in about two weeks.

This class has been interested in her work for some time and has been assisting her in financing new Sunday schools in connection with her work in China.

The remainder of the evening was spent with games upon the lawn by the entire class.

Red Cross Dining Room Menu

The Junior Red Cross of the Polytechnic High will serve the following menu at the Armory tomorrow, July 25: Beef loaf, gravy, scalloped potatoes, spinach and egg, fruit and nut salad, tomato and cucumber salad, orange pie, home-made cake, fresh fruit, orangeade, iced tea, and coffee. There will be music during the noon hour in charge of Miss Grace Smiley.

Red Cross Benefit

Tomorrow night the Fraternal Brotherhood will give their monthly social for the benefit of the Red Cross. An unusually interesting program has been prepared, and the members hope to have a good attendance. Their efforts so far this summer have turned in over $50 to the Red Cross.

Wiener Bake at Beach

Mr. W. R. Covell and Miss Mildred Dixie were the hosts last night at a jolly wiener bake at East Newport, with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. James and their daughter, Juanita, and several of Mr. James' employees, as guests. A merry evening was spent on the sands, and the moonlight ride to and from the beach was greatly enjoyed. Those who shared the evening's fun were Mr. and Mrs. James, Miss Juanita James, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman, Misses Anna Hafer, Minnie Roser, Helen Garstang, Grace Gebhart and Mrs. Artie Walton.

UNIQUE SHOWER

Miss Freda Moesser Guest of Philatheas at Balboa Last Night

Miss Freda Moesser, whose approaching marriage is a matter of much interest among her many friends, was the honored guest last night at a unique shower, given for her by the Philatheas Class of the United Presbyterian church.

The merry company of girls motored to Balboa, where they enjoyed a wiener bake and supper on the sands. After the supper Miss Moesser was directed to explore numerous interesting looking sand piles which had quite suddenly appeared, and each pile was discovered to hold a kitchen utensil which the bride-to-be will enjoy in her future home.

A moonlight ride on the bay in the launch Paloma promised to be one of the most delightful features of the evening, but just as the tinkle of kuleles and the melody of voices raised in song reached the highest pitch, the Paloma's engine went on a strike and threatened to remain on strike indefinitely. The Paloma drifted on the moonlit bay—and then drifted some more. The Philatheas were beginning to wonder if the tide would be low enough in the morning to wade ashore, when the engine began a feeble sputtering and gradually developed enough power to bring the launch ashore.

The outing was shared by Misses Marjorie McGee, Fannie Smart, Lois Smith, Mildred Cook, Freda Moesser, Mary Henderson, Fay Penn, Maurine Baker, Benah Wilson, Ruby Cameron, Hazel Shields, Arlie Cravath, Ada McFadden, Elsie Raitt, Minnie Phillips, Josie Eilers, Ethel Morrow, Martha Smith, Miss Walton and Misses W. J. Lindsey and Moesser.

Altar Society Meeting
The last Altar Society meeting for the year will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Klatt, 912 North Main street, Mrs. Klatt and Mrs. Carl Klatt being the hostesses. All ladies of the Altar society and congregation of St. Joseph's Catholic church are cordially invited.

Visitor from Canal Zone
Jerome Prager, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Prager of 314 West Walnut street, and a brother of Mrs. L. A. Schlesinger arrived Sunday for a visit with his parents and sister. Mr. Prager has for the past six years been in the government employ in the Canal Zone, and left a splendid position there to enlist in military service for his country. He will leave here on August 5 for one of the training camps.

Young Angell
The interesting news has just come out that on July 9, at Bozeman, Mont., Miss Emma Angell of Santa Ana was married to Chester L. Young, the naval recruiting officer in charge of the station at the city hall. Mrs. Young, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Angell, left early in July for a visit with relatives in Bozeman, and Mr. Young took advantage of a two-weeks furlough to journey after them. A very delightful honeymoon was enjoyed amid the scenic beauties of the National Forest and the young people returned here on July 14, since when they have been at home at the Angell home on South Birch street.

Mrs. Young is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Powers and has many friends who will be greatly interested in the news of her marriage.

Mr. Young, before his enlistment in the navy, was connected with Haley's garage. He has for some time been in charge of the recruiting station here.

Tomorrow afternoon at the headquarters of the Women's Committee of the Council of Defense, at 626 North Main street, an open meeting will be held, with Mrs. Mila Tupper Maynard of Los Angeles, state chairman of Educational Propaganda, as the speaker. A special invitation to attend is extended to the heads of all women's organizations and to P.T.A. presidents, who will find much to interest them in Mrs. Maynard's talk. Mrs. Maynard's propaganda is along war service lines, and is an important part of women's war work.

LINEBARGER-DOWNING

Well Known Santa Ana People Married Yesterday In Los Angeles

A war-time wedding of much interest here took place yesterday afternoon in Los Angeles, when Miss Grace Downing became the bride of William S. Linebarger.

Mr. Linebarger has for some time been an employee of the Rankin Dry Goods Company, where her pleasant courtesy has won her hosts of friends who will wish for her every happiness. Mr. Linebarger is cashier of the First National Bank in Tustin. After a two weeks' honeymoon, the young people will return to Santa Ana, and on August 5th the groom will leave for Camp Fremont, where he will enter the army. Mrs. Linebarger expects to remain here until sometime in September, when she will join a sister in Canada.

The Lincoln School Junior Red Cross workers will meet tomorrow afternoon in the kindergarten room at the school house. Notice has been received that the layettes upon which the workers have been engaged this summer must be in by August 24th, which is a month earlier than was at first expected. Mrs. Nord has had charge of the summer's work, and reports that the layettes will be completed by the date set. A good attendance tomorrow afternoon is particularly desired, as a short business meeting will be held, and some important plans for the rest of the summer's work will be arranged. Workers who can come tomorrow are asked to provide themselves with thread, needles and thimble, and some work will be done on the quilts. Anyone having pieces of material suitable for quilt blocks is asked to bring it. Lincoln school is very anxious not to fall behind the other schools in holding up its end of the Junior Red Cross work, and all who can possibly spare an hour or two tomorrow afternoon are urged to attend the meeting.

NEWS IN BRIEF FORM

Charles Dunn of Fullerton, brother of Jim Dunn of East Wilshire avenue, who is now in the navy at San Pedro, was the victim of a peculiar accident the other day. Charles was guard on one of the ships now building at San Pedro and in going down stairs he stumbled over some pieces of pipe left thereon by a plumber, and fell several feet to the floor. When he landed on the floor his high-powered revolver in his belt was discharged. The bullet passed through his foot.

Geasti of Los Angeles, struck her, knocking her senseless and killing the parrot.

200 ATTEND C. E. COUNTY RALLY LAST NIGHT

Attendance Banner Goes to Huntington Beach; Intermediate to Anaheim

The Orange County Christian Endeavor rally, held last night at the Orange Christian church, was attended by about 200 young people, nearly every union in the county being represented. John A. Henderson, Jr., county president, presided and was highly gratified with the large attendance and the interest shown by some of the unions.

During the interesting song service, Merle Ramsey of this city presided, with Harry Warner, organist at the United Presbyterian church, at the piano. Before the address of the evening, Miss Leila Ritzer of this city very sweetly sang the solo, "There is a Green Hill Far Away."

The young people's banner for the best attendance was awarded to Huntington Beach Union, which had seventy-nine per cent of its membership present. This was most appropriate, as Huntington Beach will be the hostess union for the county convention to be held at the beach resort early in October. The intermediate banner went to the Presbyterian church union at Anaheim.

The audience then separated for conferences and to hear the reports from the state convention held recently at Sacramento. The reports were made by Miss Mabel Sulter, state missionary superintendent; Miss Edith Sulter, state social superintendent, and Miss Lela Cull, all of El Molino; Misses Mildred Bower, Beatrice Anderson, Bernice Bull, Esther Yen-ton, all of Santa Ana.

Following the conferences, the audience returned to the auditorium, where he principal address of the rally was delivered by Charles E. Culver of Los Angeles, last year general secretary and this year elected state president.

Mr. Culver gave a summing up of the Sacramento convention, outlined his policies for the coming year and issued a challenge for the young people to do their best for effective and patriotic war work.

NEWPORT BEACH EARLY WORK ON SHIP PLANT AT NEWPORT IS INDICATED

Dirt Will Fly 30 Days After City's Dredging Contract
Is Signed

NEWPORT BEACH, July 24.—The contract for dredging the channel from bulkhead station No. 107 to No. 121 as defined by the United States Government engineers, by the Pope Shipbuilding and Construction Corporation and their agreement to begin the construction of a shipbuilding plant, was presented to the Board of Trustees by City Attorney Clyde Bishop at the meeting Monday evening, and after being discussed from every angle, received the approval of the members of the board.

The city attorney and the shipbuilders' consulting attorney, H. F. Scoville, had previously met in conference and every point to insure the interests of the city was covered and met with the approval of both parties in the contract. The readiness with which every term was met by Mr. Scoville indicates that his clients are willing and anxious to meet the city more than half way.

The shipbuilding company has applied to the corporation commissioner of the state for a charter to do business and just as soon as this is received, the company will be organized, the officers elected and instructed to sign the contract with the city and "dirt will begin to fly." The contract and agreement have not yet been signed by the city, but the board has authorized the chairman and clerk to sign these instruments as soon as the company receives the charter.

According to the terms of the contract, the shipbuilders must exercise their right of option to the land chosen for the ship yards site and immediately begin the construction of a bulkhead and expend the sum of $15,000 in improvements on the land. When this has been done the city will pay the company $10,000 which is to be withheld on the amount to be paid for dredging the channel.

All sums received by the city for dredging material or fillings are to be placed in the dredging fund and used for continuing the channel and in case the material is carried for a distance of over 1000 feet the city agrees to pay additional cost. Payment for dredging for the previous month will be made on or before the 10th of each month, excepting that 10 per cent of the amount will be retained by the city until the completion of the contract and the acceptance of the work.

If the $50,000 voted for the channel proves to be inadequate to complete it, the Board of Trustees agrees to submit to the city electors at a special election the proposition of voting enough additional money to complete the work according to the plans of the city engineer. The board also agrees to grant the shipbuilders a right-of-way over such streets as might be needed for side tracks from the railroad lines to their site.

The site chosen by the shipbuilders lying easterly of the road between the city and the Santa Ana river bridge, known as the Stevens and Gleason tract, comprises about thirty acres. The option secured on this tract calls for the payment of $1000 per acre or a total sum of approximately $30,000. The land is barely above the high-tide line and during extreme high tides is partially under water and will require considerable filling before it can be used. It is estimated that $15,000 will be required to build a bulkhead on the channel side of the site to protect the property, and after the contracts are signed, this will be one of the first things to be done.

The construction of a dredger by the shipbuilders, which company will be known as the Pope Shipbuilding & Construction Corporation, will be commenced simultaneously with the construction of the bulkhead and the driving of piling for the ship ways. Actual work on the ship yards, however, cannot be expected until the dredger is built and the land brought up to the required grade.

With every possible contingency apparently covered and mutually agreed upon by both parties to the contract, it seems that Newport Beach, after many years of hushing while waiting, is now given an opportunity for development and expansion in the industrial world.

The fact that these men were ready to accept any reasonable terms or conditions demanded by the city, that there was not quibbling over trivial matters, no objections to permitting the fullest protection of all the city's rights and interests, and the high financial standing and ratings of the members of the company, would indicate that they mean business.

The developments of the next few weeks will be watched with a great deal of interest by our residents and everyone in Orange county.

LITTLE CHANCE FOR EASTLAND DAMAGES

CHICAGO, July 24.—Hopes of claimants for damages growing out of the Eastland steamship disaster here were shattered today with the announcement that a salvage concern had a prior claim against the $45,000 realized in selling the ship. The salvage claim practically wipes out available cash. The Eastland sank in the Chicago river three years ago today, killing 800.

FRENCH VETERAN SAYS AMERICA DEMORALIZES GERMANS

Brother of Santa Ana Is 41
Years Old and Youngest Man In Regiment

"Raise the American flag." Thus enthusiastically does Jean Leon Lagrave express himself in a letter sent from France by him and received by his sister, Mrs. P. Regia of the French Laundry of Santa Ana. His letter fairly bristles with pride and hope, and he is deeply impressed with the valor of the Americans.

Lagrave and his brother-in-law have been serving side by side for four years. They fought at the Marne in the early days and again in recent battles. They stood with the immovable French at Verdun. Neither has ever been wounded.

Lagrave is 41 years of age, and the remarkable fact concerning his age is that he is the youngest man in his regiment. He entered the army four years ago this coming August 2nd and photograph received by his sister shows him wearing a medal for distinguished service.

Lagrave's letter, written on June 14, translated, follows:

"I am well and am fighting like a man should fight for his country, peace and world liberty. I am sorry for the poor kaiser. He must be very hungry for his Paris meals that he cannot get. Just think, it is four years ago that he was to have his breakfast in Paris. I am very sorry for him as he won't be able to ever get that breakfast.

"We and your Americans give him plenty. We are glad to have the American soldiers here. We do all we can for them. We appreciate their company and we fight together like brothers. I must say that the Americans are just grand soldiers, so full of courage and so brave. The advantage of the German was rather strong and he was able to send us back for a time, but we and the Allies will show him what we can do.

"The Americans are strong in their belief that the boches will be beaten. You can believe that gives us courage and strength. The Americans are sure of victory and we believe with them. The boches now know that there are more than a million men from U. S. A. and by that the foe will soon be demoralized.

"You see, the boche soldiers must be tired out and run down, as we see when we take them prisoners. Our division has taken 1000 prisoners who were glad to be taken as they were sick and tired out. At first, they laughed at us to hear the Americans were coming from America. They could not believe it. They said we were mistaken. They thought America was too far away to send any men so far to fight them. They thought they could sink all the American boats. They see now that the more they wait the more they fail and that they will be beaten because now with the Americans they recognize that the war will turn bad for them.

"In this last fight between Soissons and Chateau Thierry we have concluded a double attack. Our regiment has been in line with the younger ones and you can believe that we have done our duty. For two weeks we have made progress, Americans on one side and we on the other. We are doing well. Don't say you did not get good news when you receive this letter. Raise the American flag.

"I am proud of my medal as you are of your loving brother who fights next to the Americans."

SERGT. FRYE GIVES HIS LOCATION AS AT PONTEUX, FRANCE

Sergt. Herschel Frye, now with Co. D, 41st Engineers, is stationed at Pontoux, in the southwestern corner of France. A letter received from him by his sister, Mrs. Lee Buck, of 127 South Main street, gives his location for the first time, a new order to the army in France allowing the giving of locations excepting locations within the war zone.

Recently Sergeant Frye visited Bordeaux. "A person in Bordeaux," writes he, "would hardly know that a war is going on, for everything is gay there. Bordeaux is sure a bear of a town and there are more pretty girls there than you can count." At the time of writing the letter, June 10, Sergeant Frye was laid up for a few days by reason of a "wound" received while in swimming in a river. He stumbled over a large rock and knocked off a nail from his left big toe.

ARE TO SELECT DIRECTOR FOR WORK HERE

Permanent Head of Americanization Movement Is Not Yet Chosen

Temporary organization for an Americanization Bureau for Orange county was made at a meeting of members of the Women's Americanization committee for the county and of the County Council of Defense yesterday.

Dr. E. J. Jack, state director of Americanization working with the State Commission upon Housing and Immigration, had hoped to secure a permanent organization, but that was continued until a later date. During the interim a permanent director for Orange county will be selected. Yesterday Mrs. A. J. Lawton was selected as temporary director to take charge until a permanent chairman is appointed.

Selected upon a temporary county board were Mrs. A. J. Crookshank, C. E. Utt, Judge Z. B. West and Mrs. O. Rodriguez.

In his address, Dr. Jack outlined the work that the Americanization bureaus are planning to do all over the country. He said that the movement is one of the big things under way in this country. American ideals and principles are to be taught.

"Our problem," said he, "is not alone with aliens, but also with native born men and women and children. As a rule all foreign born residents want to become citizens of this country. We must go to them, and let them know that we are with them and they with us. That we are all together in this great war. We must make them understand just what this war is about. To work in this nation without lost motion, we must get the foreigners who are here with us. We want them to always speak of America in loving terms.

"I understand that in this county you have few aliens excepting Mexicans. It is planned before long to have Mexican speakers who can go among Mexicans all over this state and do the work that should be done among them."

HER DAUGHTER WAS SAVED FROM OPERATION

Mrs. Wells of Petersburg Tells How.

Petersburg, Va.—"For two years my daughter suffered from a weakness and pains in her right side; at times she was so bad she could not do any work. For two years she was attended by the best physicians here, and both agreed that she would have to be operated on. I suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and at first she refused to take it, but finally consented. From the very beginning it helped her, and now she is entirely well, and telling everybody how much good it has done her."

—Mrs. W. D. WELLS, 226 North Adams Street, Petersburg, Va.

If every girl who suffers as Miss Wells did, or from irregularities, painful periods, backache, sideache, dragging down pains, inflammation or ulceration would only give this famous root and herb remedy a trial they would soon find relief from such suffering.

For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of forty years experience is at your service.
